

APPENDIX A:

KEY PROJECT PERSONNEL

APPENDIX A: KEY PROJECT PERSONNEL

Douglas B. Mooney earned his Master's Degree in Anthropology from Pennsylvania State University and holds a B.A. in Anthropology from West Virginia University. He also completed two years of post-graduate study at the Institute of Archaeology, University College, London. Principal Archaeologist at Kise Straw & Kolodner, Mr. Mooney has over twelve years experience in cultural resources management and has participated in the excavation of more than 150 sites throughout the Mid-Atlantic region and in England. The primary author of more than 25 technical reports and professional papers and presentations, Mr. Mooney's experience encompasses historical, urban, mortuary, and prehistoric archaeology. He is a member of the Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology, the Eastern States Archaeological Federation, the Middle Atlantic Archaeological Conference, the Archaeological Society of New Jersey, and the Philadelphia Archaeological Forum.

Richard J. Lewis holds a B.A. in Anthropology and History from Bloomsburg University. He has eleven years experience as an archaeologist and has excavated more than 50 sites throughout the Mid-Atlantic region. His work encompasses both historic and prehistoric sites, and includes urban, rural and mortuary archaeology. A Project Archaeologist with Kise Straw & Kolodner Inc. since 2000, Mr. Lewis has previously worked for Parson's Engineering Science, Inc., KCI Technologies, Inc. and Skelly and Loy, Inc. He has authored over 10 technical reports and professional papers, including The Burning Tree Golf Course Mastodont and Archaeology vs. Special Interest Groups presented at the State System of Higher Education conference.

Dr. Petar D. Glumac is the Director of Archaeological Services at Kise Straw and Kolodner. He received his B.A. in Anthropology from the University of Pennsylvania and his Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley. He is certified by the Register of Professional Archaeologists (RPA) has more than 25 years experience as a practicing field archaeologist. During this time Dr. Glumac has conducted and supervised academic excavation and survey projects in Europe and Asia. While working in the private sector he has supervised CRM projects in South America and Japan, as well as having extensive project experience throughout the United States, particularly in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast. He is the author of more than 50 professional publications and cultural resources reports.